SERMON SERIES: JESUS IN HIS OWN WORDS

Critics and scholars have written countless words about Jesus, making claims for who he is and what he accomplished. But what does Jesus have to say about himself? On seven different occasions in John's Gospel Jesus makes a stunning claim about himself, each one prefaced with the simple statement: "I am." This spring we will explore these statements and the rich truths they reveal about him. Join us as we hear from Jesus in his own words.

As we walk through Acts together as a church on Sunday mornings, join us for a study of The Sermons of Acts: Engaging Culture Then and Now. Together, we'll explore the key sermons in the book of Acts to see how the apostles proclaimed the gospel in a complex and changing world. As we examine their message, methods, and reliance on the Holy Spirit, we'll discover how these same truths shape the way we live, speak, and engage our own culture today. This four-week study will be taught by Rev. Tripp Gordon and Jack Carson. Scan the QR code to sign up.
